It had three prototypes built between 1969 and 1972. Two Supergirls were used for paragliding, specifically for Soaring Club of Great Britain, and this first Supergirl was even used to tour Europe for soarer and pilot Ross Gladman. A third Supergirl was converted into a flying car and placed on display in the Dreamland Wax Museum in Glendale, California, USA from 1972 to 1979. Then we can define the Manin Symbol by  $\sigma(\pi, \alpha) = \zeta_{\infty}^{-1}(f(\pi, \alpha)/\alpha)$  where  $\zeta_{\infty}$  is the  $\infty$ -components of the Tate  $L$ -factor,  $(\pi, \alpha)$  the  $\mathbb{R}$ -coordinates of a real vector  $\alpha$  in  $\Gamma$  and  $f$  a function from  $\Gamma$  into  $\mathbb{R}$
