The attack was reportedly carried out by a man who was a fan of Van Dam, though Van Dam's mother-in-law who reportedly lives with him was home at the time. The man reportedly slapped and pushed Van Dam after a conversation turned to Van Dam's brother, who has wrestled in the WWE. Van Dam was reportedly taken to the hospital after the attack, and he is currently at home recovering from the attack. WWE has since confirmed the incident to ESPN's Brett Okamoto. Van Dam is expected to return to the company shortly. Post navigation

Once upon a time, the number of apps an average consumer could carry around was very limited. Think of an iPod. It had maybe 20 apps installed and you weren't allowed to install more than one app per app category. The platforms on which such apps were running, were – per definition – desktop platforms, and each app was a specialized program.

BRONZE users can click on the available charts and see the data just like the PLATINUM users. PURPLE Description: As a PURPLE user, you can click on the chart and see the chart with graphs and tables. GOLD Description: As a GOLD user, you can click on the chart and see the chart with graphs and tables. ADVANCED Description: A: Here is a link to a page where you can find this video tutorial I found on YouTube by a fellow user: (Link is for a youtube embed as the video is not visible here). I would suggest you try this tool first before buying (I had). What I liked most in the video tutorial is that it can also tell you how much space you need. If you are a regular user, this tool will do you a good service! Q: How do I avoid Drupal Concat field stripping " and ` from Value in search query? I am working on a webapp and I am displaying information from Drupal and when the user searches it I want to avoid stripping the " or ` from the strings. How do I do this? Drupal is interpreting these characters as delimiters. For example, If I am searching for "`todo`,`fishing`", Drupal will strip these out. This is fine, but it leaves a huge hole in my search query. I have been tinkering with the QueryString module, but I cannot find a way to get it to work. I have also been tinkering with hook_query_alter and trying to pass the encoded value to it, but I cannot get it to work. How do I solve this problem? A: Sounds like you want to convert a string in a QueryString Query into a full-fledged Query object. Here's the basic steps, assuming you have your string in variable $string. Convert it into a Query object. This is just for debugging purposes, to see if it's valid. $query = new DrupalQuery(); $query->set('todos', $string); $query->condition('title', $string); $query->execute(); Now the result of $query->execute() will be a database query. 80eaf3aba8
