The Siva Puranam in the Tamil language is one of the most famous and important Scriptures of Hinduism. It contains more than twenty-five verses and is named after the Tamil Vaishnava Saint Sri Siva Purana (The Siva Puranam). The Tamil name for the Siva Puranam is Thirupugazh. The puranic content of the Thirupugazh as given in the Tirumurai is vast. We have mentioned here the first thirty verses, which describe the creation of the world, the presence of Lord Siva, the incidents in the life of Lord Siva, the origin of the great rishis, the origin of mankind, the origin of devas, the origin of the demons, the origin of the man-lion, the origin of various other forms of life, the origin of the great man-lion, the origin of the great devas, and the origin of the three cities (the city of Siva, the city of Vishnu and the city of Brahma). The remaining verses are of a philosophic character. The all-pervading Lord Siva is described as follows: "Siva is the only one; he is the living one. Siva is the Lord; he is the lord of lords. Siva is the true, he is the supreme. Siva is the formless, he is the original. Siva is the immortal, he is the everlasting. Siva is the infinite, he is the creator. Siva is the Lord, he is the Lord of lords." Siva is described in the Tamil version as "Urupatham", that is, he has two moustaches. The term Urupatham is derived from the Tamil word "Uru" which means, in the Tamil language, a very immense mass. The original name of Lord Siva in the Tamil language is "Pillai Uru" and hence the term "Urupatham" is derived. Uru means a mass, mass, and is also used as a prefix to a name. Uru is used to denote the size of a mass. As a prefix, it is used in names of different large objects, such as mountains, towns, races, armies, palaces, etc. An example of its
